The Fleurieu Peninsula's first choice for local news

The Fleurieu Peninsula is an iconic destination for tourists and locals. It runs from Langhorne Creek to Cape Jervis and Victor Harbor to McLaren Vale.

The beaches, the wineries, agriculture and the finest restaurants make up the Fleurieu Peninsula. It is a great place to live being only one hour from Adelaide, but the region is self-sustainable and has all the services a family or individual requires.

The magnificent beaches, the might of the Murray, the best local food and wine, spacious parks and the people are what makes this region so special.

And of course, Fleurieu Sun and The Times cover this region in its own unique and professional manner with a great local team based in Victor Harbor.

The Fleurieu Sun has a dedicated team of journalists who work hard to ensure that the newspaper is a reliable source of information for the communities it serves. The paper is distributed both in print and online, making it accessible to a wide range of readers.
